This branch of law ensures that governmental power is exercised within the bounds of legality, fairness, and accountability, thus safeguarding individual rights and promoting good governance.

What is Administrative Law?

Administrative law is a specialized field within public law that oversees the functioning of government agencies, public officials, and administrative procedures. It ensures that administrative actions are carried out legally, fairly, and transparently. Unlike criminal or civil law, which primarily deal with disputes between individuals or between individuals and the state, administrative law focuses on the rules governing government decision-making processes.

In the context of Bangladesh, administrative law governs a broad spectrum of activities, including the issuance of licenses, permits, and sanctions; administrative hearings; disciplinary actions against public servants; and judicial review of administrative decisions. It acts as a check on the arbitrary use of power, ensuring that government actions align with constitutional and statutory provisions.

Historical Development of Administrative Law in Bangladesh

Bangladesh's administrative law has evolved significantly since its independence in 1971. The legal framework inherited from British India influenced its early formation, particularly the colonial-era statutes and principles.

Key milestones include:

- Constitution of Bangladesh (1972): Establishes fundamental rights and the framework for the rule of law, emphasizing accountability and the separation of powers.

- Administrative Tribunals Act (1980): Created specialized tribunals to hear disputes involving government officials, emphasizing administrative justice.

- Codification of Administrative Procedures: Efforts to formalize administrative procedures, such as the Bangladesh Administrative Tribunal Rules, aimed at enhancing transparency and accountability.

Over time, Bangladesh's administrative law has been shaped by constitutional mandates, statutory provisions, and judicial interpretations, balancing governmental authority with individual rights.
